

APOLKA RESTAURANT

The Apolka restaurant is named after the legendary Apollo refinery, popularly called Apolka. This refinery was established in 1895 and became one of the key industrial enterprises in Bratislava.

You are in historic Apollo Club building, which was established in the early 1910s as the Apollo Refinery's office and management building.

Here you can immerse yourself in a unique atmosphere that combines historical charm with modern design and respect for its history.

Our kitchen offers traditional dishes of the old Pressburg kitchen in a new, modern guise, while we focus on the use of local, fresh ingredients, which are the key to authentic, but at the same time modern taste experiences.

The dishes are prepared with attention to detail, respect for tradition and the courage to experiment.
